Switzerland's prosperity is partly due to the immigration of foreign workers. Not only do they boost the economy, they also enrich the culture. Residence in Switzerland is now easier for EU/EFTA citizens thanks to bilateral agreements between Switzerland and the EU. In the labor market they have the same rights as Swiss workers. For people from other countries who wish to live and work in Switzerland, certain provisions apply.

6.1 ENTRY AND VISAS

To enter Switzerland for up to 90 days in a 180-day period, you require a valid travel document that is recognized in Switzerland. In some cases a visa and letter of invitation are also required. A visa is generally required for longer stays. The Federal Office for Migration publishes the current requirements on its website.

6.1.1 Visa Requirements

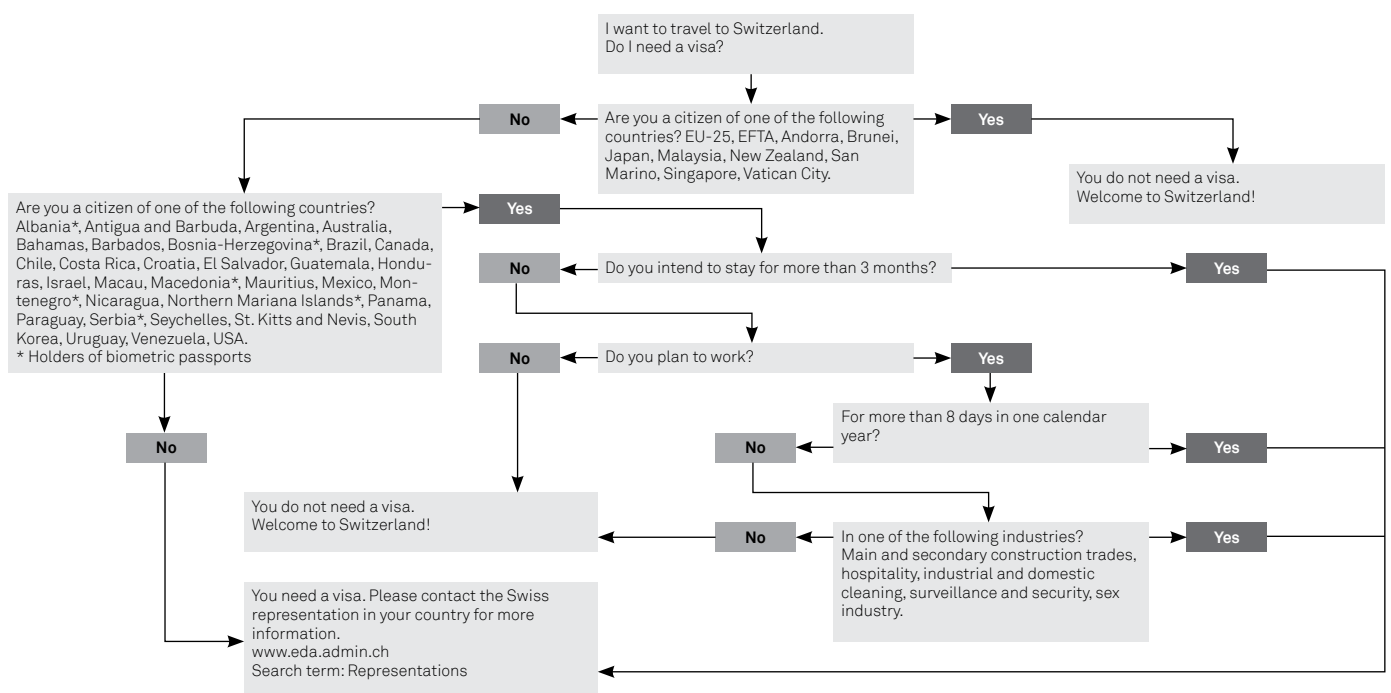

Foreigners who require a visa must submit an entry application from the Swiss representation where they live before they enter Switzerland. The Swiss representation abroad can only issue the visa if it has been authorized to issue visas by the responsible federal or cantonal office in Switzerland. The type of visa and the documents required depend on the purpose of the visit. One of the visa requirements is that applicants must prove that they have enough funds available or can legally obtain them to pay for living expenses during their trip through or stay in Switzerland. The Swiss representation may require the submission of a declaration of sponsorship before it issues the visa if the applicant does not have sufficient financial funds or if there is some doubt on this point. The relevant authorities will require that travel insurance be taken out regardless of whether a declaration of sponsorship has been submitted. The minimum insurance cover is EUR 30,000.

6.1.2 How to Obtain a Visa

- 1. Persons requiring a visa must submit a visa application to the Swiss representation responsible for their place of residence. Travel documents and any other requested documents which explain the reason for the journey must be submitted along with the application. The representation’s website will provide detailed information about the required documents and the relevant application forms. All documents, letters or certificates that are not in German, French, Italian or English must be submitted with a translation.
- 2. If the representation requires a declaration of sponsorship, the foreign visitor must complete the relevant form and submit it to the sponsor.
- 3. The sponsor completes and signs the form and submits it along with the required documents to the relevant cantonal or municipal authorities.
- 4. The declaration of sponsorship is checked by the relevant cantonal or municipal authorities and is entered into the Central Migration Information System.
- 5. The result of the check is communicated without delay to the representation abroad, which decides whether or not to issue the visa.

If the visa is denied, the applicant may, for a fee, request a decision from the Federal Office for Migration and submit an appeal to to the Federal Administrative Court in Bern within 30 days after notification.

6.2 TEMPORARY AND PERMANENT RESIDENCE

Residence and permanent residence permits are issued by the cantonal migration offices. Stays of up to three months do not require a permit, while stays of over three months do require one. It may be possible to work depending on the type of permit issued. Foreigners who reside in Switzerland receive a residence permit indicating which type of authorization has been granted (Fig. 22).

6.2.1 Family Reunification

Citizens of Switzerland and EU/EFTA citizens with a residence permit or a short-term EU/EFTA residence permit are allowed to have their families join them, regardless of their nationality. The following are classified as family:

- Spouses and children who have not yet reached the age of 21, or who are entitled to maintenance
- Parents and parents of the spouse, who are provided with maintenance

Students are only allowed to be joined by their spouses and children who are entitled to maintenance.

People from third countries with permanent residence permits (permit C) have the right to allow their children and husband/wife to join them. People with residence permits (permit B) have no legal right to this. The cantonal migration authorities can, however, permit the move, if people from third countries can prove that they have a suitable place to live, sufficient income, and an established residence (a residence which has not caused any complaints). Husbands, wives and children of Swiss nationals and people with permanent residence permits or residence permits can take up self-employed or employed work all over Switzerland.

6.3 RESIDING IN SWITZERLAND WITHOUT EMPLOYMENT

6.3.1 Stays of up to 3 Months

Switzerland has been an associate member of the Schengen Agreement, and thus part of the Schengen Area, since December 12, 2008. The provisions of the Schengen Agreement govern entry into Switzerland and stays of up to three months that do not require a permit.

Generally, staying in Switzerland without employment (e.g. for a visit, tourism) for up to three months does not require a permit. However, a visa is necessary for nationals of certain countries. Foreigners may stay in Switzerland for no more than three months within a six-month period calculated from the first time of entry. Persons requiring a visa must comply with the amount of time they are permitted to stay as stipulated on their visa.

To enter the country, foreigners must have a valid travel document that is recognized by Switzerland. For persons requiring a visa, Switzerland issues Schengen visas, which are generally valid for the entire Schengen Area, for stays of up to three months.

6.3.2 Longer Stays

Stays of more than three months also require a permit for persons who are not gainfully employed (retirees, students, job seekers, and others). Permits are issued by the cantonal migration offices. A distinction is made between short stays (less than one year), temporary stays (of limited duration) and permanent stays (of unlimited duration).

Non-EU/EFTA nationals must submit the application for a residence permit (together with the visa application) to the relevant Swiss representation before entering Switzerland. Different documents will be required depending on the purpose of the stay (studying, retirement, medical purposes, etc.). If the conditions for a permit are fulfilled, then either a short-term permit will be issued (for a stay of less than one year) or a residence permit (permit B) valid for one year if the applicant is to stay longer than one year. After entering the country, the permit holder must register with the relevant municipality.

EU/EFTA nationals who are not gainfully employed are granted the right to stay in Switzerland based on the free movement of persons agreement. After arrival, a residence permit must be applied for in the municipality at the same time as registration and will be granted if the following requirements are met:

- The unemployed person must have sufficient financial funds to prevent them from becoming dependent on state aid so they do not become a burden on their new country of residence.
- They must have health insurance that covers all risks (including accidents).

The EU/EFTA residence permit is valid throughout Switzerland for five years and is automatically extended by the relevant authorities if the above-mentioned requirements continue to be met. Unemployed persons may be joined at a later date by their families if they have sufficient financial funds to maintain them.

6.3.3 Special Case: Students

The procedure described in 6.3.2 also applies to students. The following conditions also apply:

Students who are citizens of EU or EFTA states, the U.S., Canada, Australia or New Zealand must generally provide credible proof that they will not become a welfare case during stays of more than three months (at the relevant Swiss representation or municipality upon registration). Students must also prove that they are enrolled at a recognized educational institution in Switzerland and will be attending a course of general, vocational or professional education. If these requirements are met, the student will receive a residence permit for the duration of their studies or for the period of one year if their studies last longer than one year. The permit will be extended until the student has completed their studies if the requirements for the permit continue to be met.

Students who are not citizens of EU or EFTA member states, the U.S., Canada, Australia or New Zealand must also include the following documents together with their personal entry application, which they submit to the relevant Swiss representation:

- Letter of acceptance from the institution
- Proof of payment of tuition fees
- Proof of sufficient financial funding for living expenses for the duration of the course of study
- Diplomas / school certificates
- Written agreement to leave Switzerland after completion of studies
- Additional sheet documenting language proficiency. Language proficiency is judged based on a short interview at the consulate or other representation.

The Swiss representation sends the entry application, including documentation and assessment of language proficiency, to the relevant cantonal migration authorities for their approval.

6.4 RESIDING IN SWITZERLAND WITH EMPLOYMENT

People working in Switzerland during their stay in the country or people staying for more than three months need a permit from the cantonal migration office. A distinction is made between short stays (less than one year), temporary stays (of limited duration) and permanent stays (of unlimited duration).

The employer is responsible for obtaining a work permit from the cantonal migration office.

Since the bilateral agreements on the free movement of persons and the revised EFTA convention entered into force, different conditions have applied to EU-25/EFTA citizens than to people from other countries. EU-25/EFTA citizens are on an equal footing with Swiss employees. Other countries, Croatia, and until May 31, 2016, at the latest Romania and Bulgaria, are subject to immigration restrictions and the rule of priority for Swiss nationals. Foreign asylum seekers may stay in Switzerland in accordance with the provisions of asylum legislation.

The cantons are responsible for deciding on whether foreigners may stay and reside in the country. However, the federal government has the right of veto. The cantonal migration authorities are responsible for the control of aliens. Foreigners must register with the Residents Registration Office in the municipality in which they reside within one week.

For anyone intending to relocate to Switzerland, it can be advantageous to bundle the permit applications and to discuss them beforehand. The cantonal economic development agencies provide advice on how to proceed and how long the process takes.

6.4.1 Recognition of Foreign Qualifications

Certain professions, particularly in the healthcare, education, and technical sectors and in the administration of justice, are regulated. To practice these professions it is necessary to possess a qualification, certificate or certificate of competence. Foreign qualifications have to be recognized by the responsible authorities. Different authorities may be responsible for recognition, depending on the profession. Normally the authorities which regulate training for a particular profession are also responsible for the recognition of foreign qualifications.

Within the scope of the agreement on the free movement of persons, Switzerland works closely with the EU and participates in the European qualification recognition system. People from third countries also have the opportunity to have their qualifications recognized in Switzerland.

6.4.2 Residence and Employment for EU/EFTA Citizens

EU/EFTA nationals are treated the same as Swiss nationals in the labor market as a result of the free movement of persons agreement. Job seekers may remain in Switzerland for three months without a permit. Citizens of the EU-25 member states already enjoy completely free movement; citizens of Romania and Bulgaria are still subject to restrictions for the duration of the transition period, which ends on May 31, 2016 (priority of Swiss nationals, controls, quotas). These permits can be extended if needed. Quotas also apply to Croatia, but negotiations on the implementation of the free movement agreement with Croatia have been abandoned for the time being due to the mass immigration initiative.

Anyone who enjoys full freedom of movement (EU-25) no longer requires a work permit but is still required to obtain a residence permit. This will be issued by the cantonal migration authorities upon presentation of an employment contract and/or confirmation of employment. No permit is needed for stays of less than 90 days, but registration is still required. Self-employed service providers based in the EU or EFTA region no longer require a license for activities in Switzerland lasting less than 90 days per calendar year. They simply need to register, which can be done via the Internet. Exceptions to this are Romanian and Bulgarian providers in the fields of construction, landscaping, cleaning, and surveillance/security, which still require a license.

The introduction of the free movement of persons is being accompanied by a series of measures designed to prevent wage and social dumping, as well as by the mutual recognition of professional qualifications and the coordination of social insurance issues. This simplifies the recruitment of employees from EU/EFTA countries and the attendance and use of educational institutions in these countries, which boosts the efficiency of the labor market and increases the availability of highly qualified workers.

For more information about the free movement of persons, see 4.2.

6.4.3 Residence and Employment for Non-EU/EFTA Citizens

Citizens from countries outside the EU/EFTA require a work and a residence permit. Holders of a long-term residence permit are free to change jobs and place of employment, and to be self-employed anywhere in the country without requiring special permission. In important cases, holders of a short-term residence permit may also work for an employer in another canton.

Priority is given to highly qualified and specialized professionals, as well as to entrepreneurs and executives, recognized scientists and key persons involved in cultural affairs, employees of internationally active corporations and people with international business relations. This approach aims to promote economic, scientific, and cultural exchanges and to support the transfer of decision-makers and specialists of international companies. In particular, it is designed to give qualified scientists the opportunity to continue working in Switzerland after completing their studies. It is ultimately in the interest of the Swiss economy that foreigners temporarily working in Switzerland be permitted to bring their family to Switzerland, and that partners and children of holders of a long-term residence permit have the right to be employed or self-employed in Switzerland.

Key regulations:

- Residence permit B: generally valid for one year. Option to change jobs and cantons with permission, tax at source, quotas. (Some exceptions: e.g. spouses of Swiss citizens have the same rights as Swiss citizens.)
- Permanent residence permit C: same rights as Swiss nationals in labor market, no tax at source.
- Cross-border commuter permit: possible to change jobs with permission, not possible to change cantons, tax at source.
- Short-term residence permit L: not possible to change jobs or cantons, tax at source.
- Trainee permit: maximum of 18 months, only for training purposes for young professionals.
- Asylum seekers: work permit one month following submission of application for asylum. Possible to change jobs with permission, not possible to change cantons. Tax at source, 10% of salary is retained as security.
- Transfer of managerial staff: Essential management staff may reside in Switzerland for three years in accordance with the General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS). The permit can be extended for one year.

The employer is responsible for checks and due diligence, which includes ensuring that a foreign employee has permission to assume the position. In order to obtain an entry visa, the employer must prove that it was not possible to find a suitable candidate in Switzerland and that the training of a suitable employee within a reasonable period was not possible.

6.4.4 Trainees / Interns

Switzerland has negotiated agreements with numerous countries on the exchange of trainees / interns. These agreements make it easier to obtain residence and work permits of limited duration. Trainees or interns from countries which have no special agreement with Switzerland must follow the normal application procedure for work and residence permits.

Trainees / interns are defined as people who can provide evidence of being engaged in professional training or a course of study. The age limit is 35 years (exceptions: Australia, New Zealand, Poland, Russia, and Hungary: 30 years). The job must be in the profession learned or in the area of study / training and may last no more than 18 months. Canadian students who would like to complete an internship as part of their education are also admitted, while for Japanese students only university graduates are permitted. There are special quotas for trainees / interns, and national legislation giving priority to Swiss nationals does not apply. There is no provision for trainees / interns to bring their families with them.

As a result of the free movement of persons between Switzerland and the EU, nationals of the EU-25 and EFTA states no longer require work or trainee permits. Anyone who intends to work in Switzerland for more than four months must formally register with the cantonal labor market authorities.

www.swissemigration.ch provides a guide for foreign trainees / interns and potential employers, as well as addresses, a standard employment contract, and an application form.

6.5 NATURALIZATION

The naturalization process consists of three stages. It is possible to apply for Swiss citizenship in your municipality or canton. Each municipality and canton has its own requirements for naturalization in addition to those imposed by the federal government (see below).

The following requirements must be met to become a naturalized Swiss:

- Resident for 12 years in Switzerland (years of residence between ages 10 and 20 count double)
- Integration into Swiss life
- Familiarity with the Swiss lifestyle, customs and traditions
- Observance of Swiss laws
- No threat to the domestic or international security of Switzerland

Foreign spouses of Swiss citizens benefit from a simplified naturalization process (after five years of residence in Switzerland and after three years of marriage), as do children of a Swiss parent who are not yet Swiss citizens.
